

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to neurologically-active compounds, processes for their preparation and their use as pharmaceutical or veterinary agents, in particular for 5 the treatment of neurological conditions, more specifically neurodegenerative conditions such as Alzheimer's disease.